

2021 New Mexico School Counselors' Community Conference

Understanding High Value Careers for Students

Dr. Danielle Tallent

10:00 a.m.

How can we help students make good career decisions that account for shifting labor market demands? This is a critical question that is emerging as an increasing number of students face employment failure. In this session, we will explore resources and tools that can assist in connecting students to their regional labor market. Traditional approaches to career exploration will be examined, along with new methods for integrating labor market information into current career exploration activities.

About Dr. Tallent

Dr. Danielle Tallent has worked in education for over fifteen years. Starting her career as a college instructor, she gained expertise in the use of various instructional strategies that support student learning and growth. Her experience in online learning environments contributed to a strong foundation in online teaching methodology and best practices in the use of a variety of digital learning tools. In her current work with NS4ed and Pathway2Careers, she guides the development of clear and effective instructional materials for educators and students, focusing primarily on career readiness resources and the use of labor market data in educational settings. Utilizing her PhD in Developmental Psychology (University of Denver, 2009), Dr. Tallent specializes in making information relatable and developmentally appropriate to learners of diverse ages and backgrounds. She enjoys creating materials and resources that center around meaningful learning outcomes that are aligned with the personal goals of the learner.

Dr. Danielle Tallent
Chief Learning Officer, NS4ed